LARCENY

Charge Is Made Against Two
Mt. Vernon Men

Claiming that his suit case had been taken from the B. & O. station on Jan. 14, J. Koch appeared in Mayor Perrine's court Tuesday afternoon and made affidavit against Frank McGinty and James Howell, charging them with larceny. McGinty was apprehended at 3 o'clock on West High street by Chief of Police Parker and Officer Taylor, while Howell was arrested at 6 o'clock by Officer Taylor. When arraigned, both pleaded not guilty. Their hearing was set for 2:30 o'clock on the morning of January 28. Bond in the sum of $300 was required, Howell furnishing it. McGinty going to jail in default of it. Koch makes the claim that the two took his suit case from the station and carried it to their West High street residence. The suit case contained wearing apparel. The officers making the arrests found the suit case in the home, which is a boarding place.

Howell claims that he had nothing to do with the bringing of the suit case to his home, but that it was brought there by McGinty, who occupies a part of the Howell residence. Howell claims that McGinty gave him the suit case and contents, stating that he had bought it. Howell disclaims any knowledge of the suit case being stolen.

MONROE

Given An Award Of $140 For

S. Of V. Auxiliary Entertain
The Sons of Veterans Auxiliary met with regular session Tuesday evening, January 26th. A class of four candidates was initiated, and after the usual business had been transacted, the ladies adjourned to Candyland, where a delicious lunch was enjoyed.

Young People Enjoy A Bob-Sled Ride
The following party of young people enjoyed a bob-sled ride Tuesday evening to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Manford Brown on the Martinsburg road, where a chicken supper was served: Misses Helen Henley, Elsie Melick, Bertha Henry, Beulah Zent, Irene Smith, Loretta Henley, Ethel Arnold, Jessie Arrington, Selena Schaffer and Messrs. Wallace and Carl Masteller, Edward Smith, Howard McDonald, Raymond Osborne, Roy Arrington, Joseph Henley, George Barry and James T. Cranmer. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Porter acted as chaperones.

Golden Wedding Anniversary
Hale, hearty and active as a young couple, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Knobe of East Vine street celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Crill in Brink Haven, surrounded by relatives and old-time friends. A turkey dinner was served at noon to the assembled guests.

Those of the immediate family assisting in the festivities of the day were: Mr. and Mrs. Bert Crill, Mr. and Mrs. Vance Ritchey and son, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Parsons, Miss Crill and Mr. and Mrs. James Crill.
It was on Jan. 27, 1865, just at the close of the Civil war, that Mr. and Mrs. Neil Knobe were united in marriage in the Presbyterian church of Mt. Vernon by Rev. Hervey. Ever since that time, they have made their home in this city and have hosts of friends here who join in wishing them an increase in all the blessings that their wedded life has brought.

Wagner-Bailey Wedding

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cole, East Vine street, was the scene of a pretty wedding Wednesday morning when their niece, Miss Rena Bailey, of Fredericktown, was united in marriage to Mr. Lloyd H. Wagner of the same village. They were attended by Mr. John Bailey of Gambier, brother of the bride, and Miss Leila Wagner, sister of the groom. The home was artistically decorated for the event with pink carnations and similar. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William E. Hull, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church. Following the ceremony a delicious wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Wagner departed Wednesday afternoon over the Pennsylvania railroad for Louisville, Ky., where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Cureton for a few days. They will be at home at Fredericktown after February 1.

THE M. E. REVIVAL

"Except ye Repent, ye Shall All Likewise Perish," was the text of a heart-searching sermon by Dr. Whitaker at the revival services at the Gay street M. E. church last night. The music under the direction of Prof. Chubb, assisted by the orchestra and choir, added greatly to the interest of the meeting. Several responded to the invitation to come to the altar.

There were eighteen prayer meetings held at 9 o'clock in the morning, with 103 in attendance. The meetings will continue each evening this week, except Saturday. You will be welcome. Come at seven o'clock, in time for the song service.

TICKETS ON SALE

ABUNDANCE Of Gas Is Furnished By Ohio Fuel Supply Co.

The complaint of low gas pressure Tuesday morning did not come from customers of the Ohio Fuel Supply company. Not a single customer telephoned or called at the office of that company to complain of a shortage of gas. The Ohio Fuel Supply Co. has an abundance of gas. Citizens of Mt. Vernon who were not getting all the gas they needed were not patrons of the Ohio Fuel Supply Co. Manager Mulock gives the assurance that customers of the Ohio Fuel will have no cause to complain of shortage no matter how cold the weather may be.

ONE MEAL Why Dig Your Grave With Your Teeth

(New York Mail)
Overeating is the cause of many ailments. Thin people are prone to eat too often, and fleshy people too much at a time. If each class would adopt the habit of the other it would not be so bad.

Interest in food matters has brought about a remarkable transformation in the American dietary in recent years. We are more careful about the foods we buy; we have learned to examine labels more cautiously, to demand what we want and not accept substitutes of "just-as-good" foods. As a rule, we are more moderate in our meals. But there is still room for improvement.

People not handicapped by obesity are learning that up to a certain limit the less often they eat the better. Many sufferers from stomach complaints have found complete cure simply by adopting the two-meals-a-day system. Others who have restricted themselves to one meal a day have obtained even more remarkable results.

It is my opinion that one meal a day is enough for all except those inclined to accumulate flesh too rapidly. Such persons usually find frequent eating beneficial, provided the meals consist of the nonfattening foods. The only reason for advising the fleshy person to eat often is that it impairs his appetite and prevents the assimilative organs from converting the food into fatty tissue.

Once a person becomes accustomed to cutting down the number of meals it is hard to induce him to return to the old three-meal-a-day system. He finds that he enjoys one or two meals for better than the greater number, and that he has a better appetite than he ever dreamed of having.

One does not know how good food can taste until he has restricted his diet in this manner for a while. There returns a relish to the foods not experienced since childhood. And dietitians agree that food benefits us in proportion to the relish we find in it. The better food tastes the more good it does us. The exception holds again for the overcorpulent person whose appetite is generally too good and needs curbing.

There should never be a reason for politeness's sake or otherwise, for eating against your desires. If your hostess put before you a salad—some invention of her own—that is a repellent conglomeration, as often is the case, do not eat it and say it is delicious, merely to humor her vanity. By such deceit you are doing both yourself and her a harm.

Eat only when you are hungry and then only that which pleases your appetite. He who eats to keep from getting hungry cheats himself of half the enjoyment of life, and is, in truth, digging his grave with his teeth. Nibbling between meals is a pernicious habit that is the chief cause of indigestion and loss of appetite. Here is the main harm of the saloon buffet lunch.

It is to be hoped that the tendency of some of our more imitative classes to copy the English custom of afternoon teas will not lead to a reaction in our improved method of living. If we do, it is sure to prove most disastrous. In the present race of English we behold only those who have proved strong enough to survive their tea and ale.

The English eat from five to seven meals a day. And we have seen that in athletic and other contests the Englishman is going back. Tests show that the English soldier is smaller of stature than formerly, and not capable of anything like his old-time endurance. The extent of ill health in England is appalling. Dyspepsia and gout flourish there as nowhere else in the world, and tuberculosis is reaping an awful harvest.

DUCKS FIND GOLD

IN MINNESOTA

Hutchinson, Minn., Jan. 27—While dressing a duck for dinner, Albert Rannow of Glencoe, on the Crow river, found gold nuggets in its crop. The nuggets proved to be of pure gold. His ducks have become very valuable to him, and he is now hunting for the source of the gold. The ducks had the run of a pasture crossed by the river, and Rannow is preparing to begin panning operations as soon as the ice loosens in the spring. It was recalled that gold prospectors returning from California some years ago panned the sands of the river bed and found good "color."

FREDEICKTOWN

Mr. R. M. Jewell, who has been retailing milk in this place the past few years and recently sold his routes, will not move to Columbus, as was reported in some of the papers, but will remain on his farm near Fredericktown, continuing in the dairy business as heretofore.

Fredericktown people are congratulating themselves that Dr. F. D. Sickles of Toledo, O., has decided to locate in this place. The doctor and his good wife were here on a visit to relatives and were induced to stay a while and get acquainted. For years past he has been a specialist in chronic diseases and has methods of treatment that are sought by physicians all over the country. He has been induced to treat a few of the ill ones here and all his patents have become enthusiastic over the results he has obtained and the fact that he has now decided to remain here permanently. Mrs. Sickles is a trained nurse and is of great assistance to the doctor in his work.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Harris were Columbus visitors the past week.

An alarm of fire was turned in Tuesday morning when the residence occupied by John Hawkins in the Foote addition was discovered on fire. It seems that an effort was being made to thaw out some waterpipes, when the woodwork caught fire. No great damage was done by the time a few buckets of water put out the flame. The strong water pressure turned on the rubber hose was too much for it for such a cold morning and burst holes in passing through. This seems to be about the extent of damage done.

The ladies of the Palmyra Baptist church will hold a chicken supper in their church parlors on Friday evening, Feb. 5th.
